Dhaka, Bangladesh – May 9, 2025 – Organic Design Home Limited, a Bangladeshi-based pioneer in sustainable textile production, is setting a new benchmark in eco-friendly manufacturing with its exclusive line of organic knit and woven items. Committed to environmental meet rising international demand for sustainable fashion and textiles.

With every product made from certified organic materials, Organic Design Home Limited ensures that both the manufacturing process and the end product are aligned with international sustainability standards. All items are sold exclusively through the company's retail outlets, maintaining full control over quality, traceability, and environmental impact.

The company is also championing circular economy practices in Bangladesh by implementing a product lifecycle approach that includes recycling and reusing textiles. By designing products with end-of-life reuse in mind, Organic Design Home Limited is minimizing textile waste and reducing its environmental footprint in a sector traditionally known for its heavy resource use.

"Our mission is not just to make organic knit and woven garments," said the company's Managing Director. "We aim to redefine how textiles are produced, used, and recycled in Bangladesh and beyond. We are proud to be a part of the global circular economy movement, starting right here at home."

The company's international reach continues to grow, with exports of its eco-friendly textile products now reaching markets in Europe, North America, and Asia. As more consumers and brands seek responsibly made fashion, Bangladesh is becoming a key player in sustainable garment production, led by innovators like Organic Design Home Limited.
